Model Dialogues

Dialogue A — First Meeting at a Conference

Alex:	Good morning. I don't think we've met. I'm Alex Carter from TechVision.
Sarah:	Good morning, Mr. Carter. I'm Sarah Mahmoud — I'm the regional director at NovaCorp.
Alex:	Pleased to meet you, Ms. Mahmoud. Are you enjoying the conference?
Sarah:	Very much, thank you. Here is my business card.
Alex:	Thank you. I'll be in touch. Enjoy the rest of the event.

Dialogue B — Introducing a Colleague

Omar: Dr. Hassan, allow me to introduce my colleague, Layla Nour.

Dr. Hassan: How do you do, Layla? What department are you in?

Layla: How do you do, Dr. Hassan. I'm in business development.

Dr. Hassan: Wonderful. We should arrange a meeting soon.

Layla: I agree. I'll have my assistant send over some available times.

Practice Exercises

Exercise 1 — Fill in the blank

1. Good _____, I'm Sarah from the accounts team.
2. Allow me to _____ my colleague, Mr. Al-Rashid.
3. It's a _____ to meet you, Ms. Chen.
4. Here is my business _____.
5. I work in the _____ department.

(morning / introduce / pleasure / card / finance)

Exercise 2 — Role play

With a partner, practise the following scenario: You are attending a business lunch. You have just been seated next to someone from a company you would like to work with. Introduce yourself, exchange cards, and arrange a follow-up meeting. Use formal language throughout.

Exercise 3 — Correct the mistakes

1. "I am pleased for meeting you." → _____
2. "This is colleague my, Ahmed." → _____
3. "Good afternoon, how are you make?" → _____

Write a short self-introduction (80–100 words) as if you were attending a business meeting.
